New CUI enhancements

Session list filter enhancement

Session list filter display

When a customer applies any filter on the Session listing page, the entire filter panel now consistently appears at the top of the page. This ensures filters remain visible and accessible while users review their results.

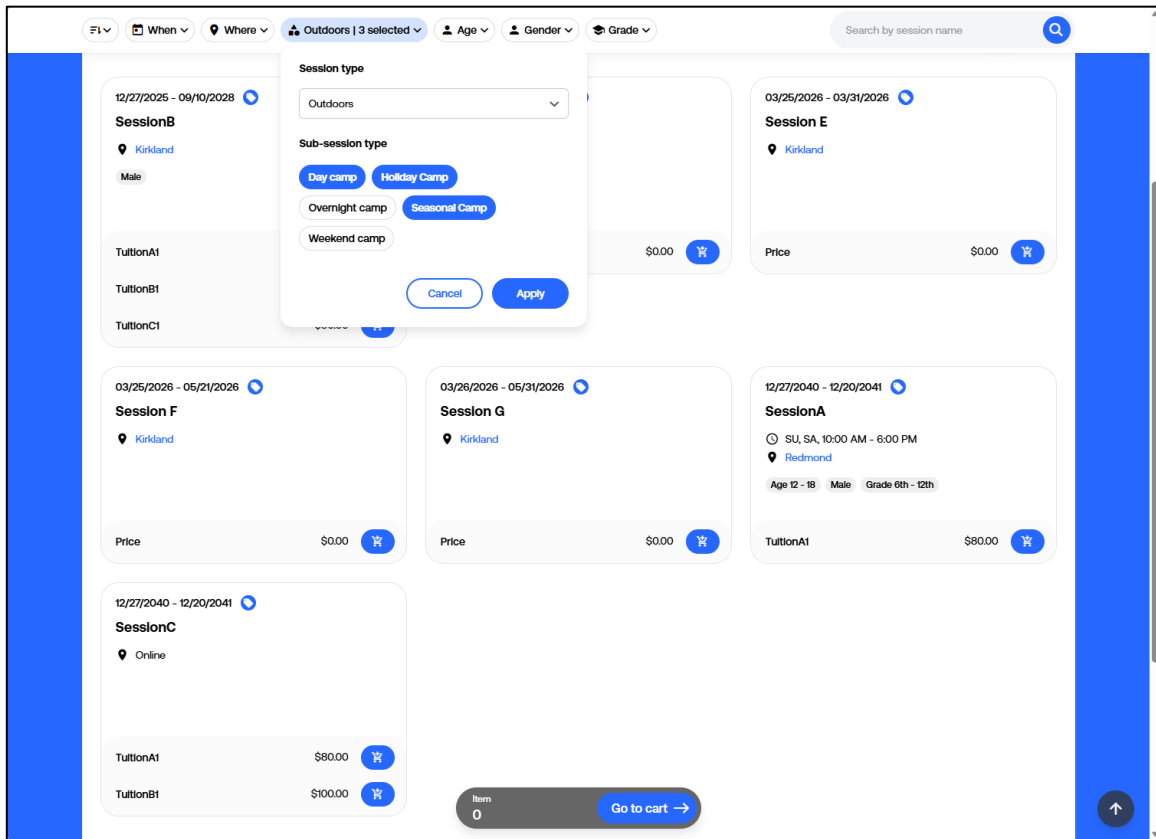

Session type filter improvements

The Session type filter has been enhanced to provide clearer, more intuitive feedback as customers select Session types and Sub-session types. The filter label now updates dynamically based on the selection:

- When a customer selects one Session type and multiple Sub-session types, the filter displays: Session type name | [number] selected.

- When a user selects one Session type and a single Sub-session type, the filter displays: Session type name / Sub-session type.

Creating a new report from an existing saved custom season report

When navigating to the AUI > Reports under a selected Season, staff users can now create a custom report by using an existing saved custom report as a template. With the new Save as option, they can easily reuse the existing configuration to build their report.

When opening a saved custom report, the Save button now includes two options: Save report and Save as. These options adjust automatically based on the report's state:

- For new reports, Save report is available while Save as is disabled.

- For saved reports with no changes, Save as becomes available for creating a copy.

- For saved reports with edits, both Save report and Save as are enabled.

Selecting Save as prompts the user to provide a name for the new report, with a default prefilled using the format Original Report Name (Copy).
