Live Report Links

Stop manually pulling and emailing weekly reports and share live reports with anyone on your event team.

Many organizations need to regularly share event data with event team members or external stakeholders and partners that would not have access to the organization's ACTIVEWorks Endurance system. To provide these stakeholders with the information they need, the event organizer would typically manually export the relevant report from ACTIVEWorks Endurance, filter it for the desired data, and email it to the stakeholder or partner. If the stakeholder requires this information every week, then the event team must repeat this process regularly, consuming valuable time that could be focused toward delivering a great event.

With the release of the Live Report feature, we've reduced the administrative burden by allowing organizers to share a link to a custom report with anyone they choose. Each time a stakeholder opens the link, they will access the latest version of the report. Each Live Report Link can be password protected for added security.

New Transfer Report

Organizers can now easily download a Transfer Report for their events to see information on all registrations that were transferred into and out of each event.

The Transfer Report lists all the vital information organizers need when tracking transfers including the original registration state before transfer, whether the transfer was performed by organizers or by participants themselves, and registration information for all transferred participants (both into and out of the event).

These transfer records give organizers an overview of how participants flow between price types and categories. With this data, organizers can better understand why participants chose to transfer.

This report will save organizers the time to gather and classify data, and facilitate their event analysis and planning.

Global Merchandise as Event-Included Items

For customers using Global Merchandise, we've added the ability to configure their event-included items (such as a t-shirt) from their Global Merchandise. Organizers can now use a product from a third-party merchandise partner as the event-included t-shirt, as well as part of the template of available merchandise to be sold in each event.

Event App Course Tracking Options

Organizers using the Event App can now choose whether they want to allow spectators to track participants through their cell phone GPS or through ACTIVE Timing and the race's chip timing system.

Holdback and Rebate Amounts in the Payment Statement

For events using referral rebates, the payment statement now shows the holdback and release amounts. Organizers can clearly see how much money is held back from each remittance.
